Curling Club Social Evening Officially Ends Season

The Irma Curling Club wound up a highly successful season with a social evening in Kiefer's Hall on April 14th with Mr. A. C. Milne as Master of Ceremonies.

The early part of the evening was spent at whist. Prizes for highest scores were: Ladies' 1st—Mrs. Dootson; Consolation—Mrs. E. Prosser; Gentlemen's 1st—Mr. Jack Savard; Consolation—Wm. Lawson.

President of the Curling Club, Mr. C. Smallwood, then called for order and gave some astounding statistics in regard to the financial undertakings of the Club during the past season. Everyone was agreeably surprised to find that although about $5,000.00 had been spent on enlarging and improving the rink and in purchasing the matched rocks, etc., only $270.00 was now required to make our Club completely clear of debt. It seemed almost incredible that so much money could have been raised in so short a time.

The next item on the evening's agenda was the presenting of prizes to the winning rinks of the Mixed Bontspiel. The speeches made by the Club officials and the representatives of the various rinks during the presentation were the highlight of the evening. The prizes were distributed as follows:

Grand Challenge:

1st—Geo. Fischer, C. Lukens, I. Thurston, R. Mikkelson. Prize—4 Rock Trophies donated by a district man who enjoys watching the curling but wishes his name withheld.
2nd—C. Smallwood, Mrs. Milne, D. Fischer, N. Willerton. Prize—Sets of Fruit Dishes.

3rd—Wm. Hubman, J. C. Savard, K. Fischer, Wm. Inklin. Prize—"Perkettes".
4th—A. C. Milne, T. Hill, Sheila Lovig, F. Crabb. Prize—Ball Point Pens.

Second Event:

2nd—E. Blanchard, F. Younker, A. Enger, Mrs. Lawson. Prize—Heinz Soups, Ketchup, etc. donated by Heinz Co.

3rd—Allan Larson, Mrs. Anquist, R. Brower, D. Burton. Prize—Thermos Bottles.
4th—N. McMillan, D. Hockett, A. Smallwood, Mrs. McMillan.

3rd—E. Jones, H. Barber, J. Bars, E. J. Meyer. Prize—Flashlights.
4th—Dan Taylor, R. McFarland, M. Lovig, E. Guy. Prize—Syrup Jugs.

A bountiful lunch was then served and dancing brought the evening to a close. Music was provided by Mr. O. Nissen, Mr. and Mrs. G. Hurst and Iris.

VACCINATION OF DOGS FOR RABIES

Dr. Saville plans on being in the Town of Irma on Wednesday, April 22 for consultation and to vaccinate dogs which owners wish to have immunized against Rabies. The Department of Agriculture is not supplying Vaccine free to this part of the Province as it is to the Northern section where the disease is the worst. Charges for Vaccination will include the price of the Vaccine. All dog owners wanting their dogs vaccinated are asked to phone Mr. O. Nissen at the Alta. Wheat Pool and leave their names. All dogs to be vaccinated are to be brought to his office in Irma.

Card of Thanks

I would like to express my sincere thanks to my many friends and neighbors including the Strawberry Plains W.I., for the kind help given me after my recent accident.

Prairie Farms Improved By Shelterbelts

Landscaping the Farmstead is an opportunity for all who control the development of farm property says a report from the Experimental Farm at Morden. Among the considerations are—improving the comfort of man, beast and plantations by establishing efficient shelterbelts; increasing family esteem by having neat buildings, well painted, a strip of plushy lawn, stretches of colorful shruberies with masses of gay flowers in one or more of its bays; and the satisfaction of owning an estate of increasing value due to its general attractiveness.

Shelterbelts are a first consideration in the Northern Great Plains area. A mowrap hedge or tree row is planted on the north and west. A main shelterbelt of about five rows is set within the mowrap hedge row at a distance of 50 to 100 feet. One two or three rows are planted on the south side, and in most cases also on the east boundary of the farmstead area.

The first impression upon travelers driving past the property on the main road, and upon visitors approaching the buildings by the driveway, is of much importance. Attractive fencing, gates, mail box, and a smooth road, clean ditches and neatly groomed lawn, trees and borders, impart an atmosphere of happy living and of welcome.

The grounds seen in approaching the house comprise the Public of Approach Area. Usually these include the front lawn, the trees and shrubs which frame the house, and the lawn, the foundation of low to medium shrubs, and a flower border in a bay formed by the front shrubbery.

Strategy Produced Results

A pretty girl had a persistent but unwanted suitor. When she refused to see him any longer, he resorted to an intensive mail campaign, sending her a special-delivery letter twice a day for 47 consecutive days. On the forty-eighth his strategy produced results. The girl eloped with the mailman.

Funny and Otherwise

A very elderly professor who had lived alone for many years was thought to be a bit queer. A woman was quite sure of it when, one day, she paused to see the old man holding a watering can poised above a flower box. At last she called, "Professor, there's no bottom in that watering can!"

"It's quite all right," he assured her. "These are artificial flowers. I'm watering."

The tax assessor's office had to decide on which side of the United States-Canada border an old lady's newly purchased farm lay. Surveyors finally announced that it was just inside the United States border.

The old lady smiled in relief. "I'm so glad to know that," she said. "I've heard that winters in Canada are terribly severe."

Guest—Your little boy pound nails into the furniture! Isn't that a rather expensive way to play?

Fond parent—Not so much as you'd think. I get the nails wholesale.

Mabel arrived home with an engagement ring on her finger. "What kind of fellow is the man to whom you are engaged?" her father asked.

"Well, he says he had always wanted a little Mabel," Mabel explained.

"That sounds good."

"And he likes our very much!"

"Why doesn't baby talk?"

Inquired the little girl, gazing at her mother.

"He can't talk yet," replied her father. "Small babies never do."

"Oh, yes, they do," was the quick answer. "Job did. Nurse read me out of the Bible how Job cursed the day he was born."

A man was approached by an insurance canvasser and asked if he was insured against fire.

"Yes," said the other.

"Burglary?"

"Well, yes."

"Are you insured against floods?"

"Floods," said the other, showing interest at last. "How do you start floods?"

TO SUCCEED GOTTWALD AS CZECH PRESIDENT—Premier Antonin Zapotocky regarded as more moderate than some of the Red hierarchy, will succeed the late Klement Gottwald, as president of Czechoslovakia. Chosen for the job by the Czech Communist party's central committee, Zapotocky assumed the presidency immediately after receiving a unanimous vote from the 271 legislators of parliament assembled in Prague. Changes in the government were brought in by the death of Gottwald, who succumbed to an illness officially described as pneumonia and neuritis soon after returning from Prime Minister Stalin's funeral to Prague.—Central Press Canadian.

How Ocean Liner Got Queen's Name

LONDON—One of the stories that now can be told about the late Queen Mary concerns the famous liner which bears her name. Cunard Line directors decided just before the liner was launched Sept. 26, 1934, to continue the tradition then of giving ships names ending in "ia." The ship was to be named "Victoria."

Queen Mary was asked to christen it. Sir Percy Bates, chairman of Cunard, went to King George V to tell him the new liner would be named "after one of Britain's most noble queens."

"Oh," said the King. "Her Majesty will be pleased."

Sir Percy kept his silence and the ship was christened "Queen Mary."

ODDITIES In The News

A candy store on a housing estate in Norwich, England, claims to be the last in Britain to use a rationing system. Only polite children who say "please" and "thank you" are served.

Inmates of a model prison for women in Epping, England, are allowed hair curlers, lipstick and a choice of five colors of linen dresses.

As the mother and father stepped out of the hotel elevator in Memphis, Tenn., five youngsters lined up in back of them. "One," called out the first child, "two," said the second, and so on until all five had counted off. The mother and father never looked back, but knew all were accounted for.

When the new high school building in Vermilion, Ohio, was completed, Ann Chadwick, librarian, solved the problem of moving her books from one building to the other by employing the old "bucket brigade" technique. Students lined up between the old and the new libraries and passed the books from hand to hand.

Forty motorists in Hartford, Conn., charged with going through red lights, had something else in common. All were arrested by Officer William M. O'Brien.

When the traffic light turned green, Myron Wilesky of Providence, R.I., started his big truck rolling and immediately hit the rear of a foreign-made sports car. Wilesky told police it was so low-slung he couldn't see it over the high hood of his truck.

A nine-foot python in the zoo at Luneburg, Germany, was fed a live pigeon for his dinner recently. The python refused the offer and the pigeon made no attempt to flee. Now they have become fast friends and sleep with the python coiled gently about the bird.

CANADIAN WOOD USED

Only in recent years have Canadians appreciated the beauty of furniture made from native woods like maple, birch and pine. Europeans were buying Canadian woods to make luxury furniture long before furniture making in this country climbed into the top 10 industries. Scientific research helped bring out the beauty of Canadian woods with improved adhesives, glues and a wide range of stains and varnishes.

Wonder Hen "Duplicate" Is Dead—462 Eggs In One Year

(By Alan Harvey, CP Staff Writer)

LONDON.—Duplicate is dead. Long live the wonder hen! Prematurely, at 18 months, death came on a Sussex farm to the slate grey bird whose feathered form, feverishly laboring overtime in life, performed prodigies that startled human kind. In Ottawa, a Canadian expert said it just could not be done.

Duplicate's claimed output for one year was 462 eggs—at least eight dozen ahead of any other bird in barnyard history.

The best record Canadian performance is 360, in '65 days, credited to a white leghorn in Galt, Ont. Duplicate had 360 in a mere 156 days. So swift was her production rate that W. E. Maynard, Canada's custodian of egg-laying records, said somebody was being spoofed.

Duplicate's British owners insist everything was on the level. Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Hutchings, who own the 125-acre farm where Duplicate performed (by fair means or foul) credit their star boarder with these rapid-fire records:

Sixteen eggs in three days. Ten in 24 hours. Five in 10 minutes. (Mrs. Hutchings' diary records this took place April 17, 1955, a flush period even for Duplicate).

Duplicate was a Holland blue. She had gentle eyes, unflinched manner and nothing to distinguish her from any other bird in the chicken run—until she started laying. At first it was two a day, so they called her Duplicate, but triplicate and other names soon became more apt.

She reached her peak last summer, then suffered from seasonal slumps.

Helpful Hints

If two safety pins are used they will often prove an excellent substitute for a corkscREW.

Before adding nuts to foods, brown them slightly in a moderate oven. It will freshen their flavor.

Marble can be cleaned mixing two parts soda, one part pumice and one part salt. Then powder and mix to a paste with water, and scour.

To whiten a wooden floor, use a strong scrubbing powder such as oxalic acid (poison). One pound of oxalic acid crystals to one gallon of water will make a saturated solution. This will cover about 10 square feet of floor. Use an old broom to spread the solution. Give it time to bleach the wood. Mop it up with water containing about 1/2 cup ammonia to a pall.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY

BOOK ABOUT LOVE

Nancy Was Advised, "Get a Book. See How to Win Lovers And Hang Onto Them."

By Lilliane M. Mitchell

LIFE seemed well for Nancy. She always got what she wanted. Except the man. Nancy had figured very definitely on a gain. She knew what he looked like and how tall he would be. Unhappily, she learned that you can talk a mother into a blue dress and a father into an art course but no girl can dream-up a man out of thin air.

Melissa, too, worked at the advertising agency. She had a red-haired fellow. Steady. He could see no girl except Melissa. In spite of a dozen girls hot on his trail, Oliver Russell was buying Melissa's double-ring outfit in ten dollars a week. Because they were so blissfully happy themselves, both Melissa and Oliver tried out every shabby young man they knew. Fruitlessly.

"You've got this romantic idea all crooked," Melissa exploded. "Your rejection slip is showing and you don't even get with. You think you don't fancy these men we've paraded. Listen to Momma! They aren't eager after you. They don't even say a word about giving you a ring later on; nothing about another date. You have to pop up to interest a man. Act gay and thrilled. Get a book. See how to win lovers and hang onto them."

It really gave Nancy a lot. Melissa was her best friend. Melissa had gone to university and majored in psychology. And she had won her own man. Nancy began to comprehend that managing the home folks was simple in comparison. Secretly she got a book and found the languid stuff was out. Active, not passive was the idea. She would almost, she told herself, as soon be an old maid as to speed up and push the way these how-to-win-romance writers dictated. Almost.

Then a salesman swung into the office and without waiting for the curt, "Wait-on-the-bench-please-he-is-in-conference-now," shoved into the boss' office. Nancy sat still, still seeing him, after the door closed.

Twenty-three or four, narrow-hipped, wide-shouldered, blonde, very tan, eyes like velvet and a wide smile. "How are you, Dream-boy?" he greeted her as he passed on his way out. "I'm Toby Wade, salesman de luxe of your art." He quirked a golden eyebrow at her bewitch and grinned. "It's not too bad. I can sell it, anyhow. I'm on the force, so to speak, as of tomorrow. Name, please?"

"Nancy Lee," she said gaily. Toby was her man. His eyes said so and his heart said so. Active, not passive; gay not quiet; merry, laughing. . . . Nancy made swift resolves.

Melissa promptly fixed up a four-room. Toby looked even better in his black tie and tux. It was not as difficult as Nancy had feared. Her heart, like the old song, wanted to dance. Toby's voice singing with the orchestra, that voice close to her ear for her alone, was like molten gold. She was glad she had had her spun gold hair set into the high-ups. She really looked sharp. Toby assured her gravely.

It was music in Nancy's ears. For eight weeks they dated two and three times a week and Nancy, the passive, dated a cape of gaiety that got her down when the rainy season set in. She was tired out all the unusual spinning, she assured her gravely.

"I'm so tired I could die," she told Melissa between sobs. She felt even worse after the hot bath and Melissa's dinner. She smeared her face with a turpentine mixture to let her breathe; she let Melissa rub her chest with an ill-smelling remedy. She braided her hair into two tight pigtails.

"I'm going to get the doctor. You never looked worse," Melissa said. As if in answer to Melissa's idea, the bell rang. Toby stood Toby.

"Go away," Melissa said cheerily. "Nancy's got a cold and she's feeling low."

"Go wash your dishes," Toby told her. "I want to talk to Nancy."

He looked down at Nancy thoughtfully. For an galvanic moment, Nancy tried to sit up, tried to say gay. She was too tired. Her head throbbed. She looked up at him and regretted the trouble. Slowly her eyelids closed. She tried to feel sorry for herself. She was losing Toby. He was saying something.

"Yes, since I got on a real job I'm not as lively as I was away back when, Nancy. Tired, now 'n' again. I was crazy about you all the time but I was afraid I couldn't keep up to your pace. Now I see we're right on the same mental plane. And physically, too. How about it, girl, you going to marry me—soon?"

"You're?" Say, next Thursday?"

No moonlight, no roses, no music. Toby seemed to be spinning like a top now. But she must have nodded because Toby leaned over to kiss her lightly. Those books! All wrong, she said sleepily. What a relief!

New, Larger Jasper Lodge Opens June 10

A new, larger, fireproof building will replace the structure destroyed by fire last Summer at Jasper Park Lodge. The famous Summer resort will open the season June 10 and close September 15 this year.

R. Sommerville, general manager, hotel department, C.N.R., in announcing construction of the new building, said the structure will be 40 per cent larger than the former building and contain a number of new features. It will, however, retain the character of the old building.

Built of concrete, steel, brick and beldstone, the alpine atmosphere will be brought out by the finish of cedar logs in some walls and the cedar "shakes" of the roof, as well as peaks and gables with wide overhang.

The highway, bridge and improvements on existing roads are also planned.

Golf week, with the well-known Tojón Polo team as the main prize, is to be held Labor Day week.

The C.N.R.'s two other Summer hotels, Minaki Lodge, in the Lake of the Woods area, and Picton Lodge, in Nova Scotia, will open June 24 and June 27, respectively. Both will close September 8.

QUEEN ELIZABETH has approved the design of this medal to be awarded members of British Commonwealth forces for service in Korea. At left is a plaster cast of the reverse side of the medal and is a representation of Hercules, hero of Greek mythology, slaying Hydra, a nine-headed monster. The word Korea is in the exergue. At right is a cast of the obverse side of the medal bearing an image of the Queen closely resembling the uncrowned effigy recently approved for use on coinage, but in higher relief.

THE TILLERS

The Tillers

James Sinclair Once 'State' Famed University Hen

VANCOUVER, B.C.—A 26-year-old mystery disappearance of a world-famous University of British Columbia hen was cleared up.

Then he, called "No. 5", had an egg-laying record that had ringed the globe and was the prize possession of the university agriculture department.

It disappeared in 1927 while an agricultural ball was in progress in a downtown supper club. The famous hen had been brought in as a "prop" for the event. The hen was missed after the ball and it was two days before it appeared once more in its coop on the university campus.

Where the hen went or how it came home was a "forgotten mystery" until Federal Fisheries Minister James Sinclair of North Vancouver made a disclosure.

He said he had fraternized brother Bert Tupper (then university rugby captain and now general manager of North West Telephone Company) made the bird home to the fraternity.

The next morning, Sinclair said, "some fraternity members wanted to kill the bird and fry it. A strong advocate of this scheme was Ralph Ball, now general manager of Columbia Cellulose at Prince Rupert, B.C."

Sinclair said that when they found they were harboring no ordinary hen, the fraternity rushed the fowl back to the campus.

"Canadians should get wise to themselves," he said. "They should realize that other nations, including the United States, recognize the country as a leader in commerce and the councils of the world, even outstripping the U.S. in many important fields."

Sheils detailed Canada's increases in production, trade and wealth during the last 10 years and said these achievements were widely recognized.

"The Dutch, the Swiss, the French and other shrewd and long sighted nations of the old world are turning more and more to our country as a safe and profitable repository for their capital," he said.

Sheils warned the students, however, that "while he wanted them to make their careers in Canada employers were not favorably impressed by young men 'who ask about the company's pension plan almost before they take off their hat.'"

"The employer doesn't like to feel that before the prospective employee has even discussed what contribution he can make to the company he wants to know all about what he can get out of it," he said.

He also warned that their university degrees would be no "open sesame" to an executive job.

"You still have a lot to learn about business when you take your first job," he said. "You need to learn a lot more than Joe Doakes, who went to public school and has come up through the company the hard way and learned a lot on the way up."

THE WORLD'S HOT SPOT

The world's year-round "hot spot" is the island of Massawa in the Red Sea. The mean annual temperature is about 86 degrees Fahrenheit.

Alberta Farmers Add To Income By Cutting Second Growth Timber

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, Alta.

Farmers in this district are logging their farms today, just as their fathers did 50 years ago.

Second growth, mostly spruce and poplar, is not as large as before but the local farmers find enough large trees to keep small mills going making boards for newcomers to the area and farmers extending their farms.

In the old days two or three farmers would join forces, buy and operate a small mill. Today most of them are doing the same thing, while a few are hauling them to the nearest custom sawmill.

NO ARGUMENT

BOSTON.—A woman visiting Boston was reprimanded by a policeman when she failed to halt for a stop sign at an intersection and protested that in her home "we just slow down and look in both directions."

"In Boston, Madam," the policeman said, "Stop means an absolute cessation of forward movement."

CAREERS NIGHT PLANS NEARING COMPLETION

Plans for the Careers Night on April 22 in the Wainwright Public School are nearing completion. The local committee with the aid of Mr. A. Aldridge, Director of Guidance, Department of Education, have rounded up a number of capable men and women who can speak authoritatively on the opportunities for young people in various vocations. In so far as practicable, local people will be made use of.

Speakers from outside Wainwright and District that will be on the offered program are the following:

Miss L. Wilson, M.A., Lecturer in Psychology and Assistant Director of Students' Advisory Services, University of Alberta.

Mr. A. McTavish, B.Comm., C.A., Principal of McTavish Business College and Secretary of Institute of Chartered Accountants of Alberta.

Mr. R. L. Talbot, Supervisor of Apprenticeship for Alberta.

Mr. D. McCullough, B.S.W., Executive Secretary of John Howard Society, Edmonton.

Mr. W. Pilkington, M.A., of the Faculty of Education, U. of A.

Mr. N. N. Bentley, B.Sc., Principal of Vermilion School of Agriculture.

Local speakers on various topics for which they are particularly equipped are:

After reading the above names, no one will remain in doubt of the attractiveness and value of the program offered. Seldom if ever, has this community seen so much diversified talent brought together at one place. A splendid opportunity is being offered the High School students of the Division to receive assistance in the selection of a vocation. Quite naturally the committee in charge is pleased with the program it is able to offer and enthusiastic at the first Careers Night in the Wainwright Division.

Locals

Well, if spring was making a leisurely and dignified entrance she surely fell flat on her face this past week—tripped over an icicle or some such chilly object. Let's hope by the time this column is in print the proper April temperatures will be with us again.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Cleson and children will make their home in Irma where Mr. Cleson will be employed with his father-in-law, Mr. Hurst, at the Irma Machine Shop. Mr. Hurst has bought out the interest of his former partner Mr. McDuff and is now sole proprietor.

Mrs. King, former long time resident of Irma, passed away in Edmonton hospital early this week. Funeral services were held from Irma United Church on Thursday, April 16.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright of Fabyan attended the curlers social at Irma on Tuesday evening.

The regular Third-Monday-of-the-Month Irma Home and School Association meeting has been changed to Thursday evening, April 23 in the school lunch room. Miss Shirley Holmes, District Home Economist, will speak on Electrification and planned wiring for the home. MAGGIE MUGGINS

The adventures of a little girl called Maggie Muggins, who numbers birds, animals and insects among her best friends are dramatized in a weekly series on the CBC. The popular children's story writer, Mary Grannan, writes the stories and does many of the voices. Maggie is played by Beryl Braithwaite, and Jim Anand is Mr. McGarry, the kindly old-man next door. The "Maggie Muggins" stories have also been presented in book form, from which Jean Finch's illustration was taken. Maggie is shown talking with Mr. McGarry—learning more about the natural wonders of the world around her.
